

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements.....	1
Table of Contents.....	3
Editors' Foreword	5

Proceedings of the 2nd e-Cruising Conference (Bremerhaven, Germany)

1.0 Cruise web „natives“, or „naives“? Assessing cruise operators' homepages in terms of cultural fit.....	9
John Wesley Klemme
2.0 On board mobile payment: Technologies and user acceptance.....	29
Anna Rohr & Lena Demel
3.0 Web content and web sentiment mining for cruise operators: State of the art and future trends	63
Evmorfia Karampournioti & Janin Schmitz
4.0 E-Learning potential in the cruise sector	87
Sarah Prenzel
5.0 Utilizing ICS for the management of overcrowding on board cruise ships.....	105
Julia Aumüller & Maren Heuckeroth
6.0 Virtual safety training in cruising: Getting passengers' attention with the help of multimedia applications.....	123
Melissa Neust & Friederike Spychalski
7.0 Does beauty sell? The role of online visual multimedia content on the hotel decision – making process and customers' expectations	139
Andrea Bohn
8.0 Free smartphones and touchpads for cruise passengers: What can cruise operators do?.....	157
Sören Christian Meyer & Thorsten Kleinschmidt

Proceedings of the 4th International Cruise Conference
(Leeuwarden, Netherlands)

9.0	Old wine in new bottles: Where will new ships go when they get old?	185
	Ross A. Klein
10.0	Influence of e-trust on direct online-bookings of sail-cruises in Turkey	199
	Nadine Guhr, Rouven Wiegard & Michael H. Breitner
11.0	The relation between learning style, personality and the perception of problem-based learning	213
	Anja de Kleijn & Wichard Zwaal
12.0	Alternative dispute resolution (ADR) and the passenger contract	247
	Thomas F. Margiotti
13.0	Cruise tourism: Future trends and innovation within the Dutch cruise market	259
	Marja Bos & Maike de Jong	